

ALEXANDRIA.

MONDAY EVENING, MAY 6.

While thousands of the people of the South are in utter destitution, and wanting the common necessaries of life, children crying for bread, and women almost starving to death, several of the Radical papers of the North, at the solicitation of certain Radical politicians in the South, are urging the people of the North to collect and send on MONEY to the South-"to pay the expenses of Radical speakers, of print ing Radical documents, and papers, and of or ganizing the Radical party." And it is said that agents of the Radical Executive and other committees are now in the North, col- injured. lecting considerable sums of money for these purposes. Perish the people-but live the party!!

It is stated in the Washington Chronicle that the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives, besides the impeachment in vestigation, is inquiring into the validity of certain late legislation in Maryland, and the nature of the title to the Kansas branch of the Union Pacific railroad, as conveyed in the sale made by Gen. Fremont. The same committee are having printed the "secret" evidence taken before them, relative to officers pardoned and kept in service-the disposal of public proper ty and its restoration to Southern owners - the delay in arresting Surratt-relating to frauds on the revenue-encorning the Southern railroads-and "the use of money for political purposes." We hope, while on this last subject, the committee have not neglected certain appropriations made by the last Congress.

Having ourselves no preddections in favor of the political course of Mr. W., or of his previous career, we give our judgment impartially.

The New Express says, "Bread is now a high, if not higher, in this country than ever known before. In 1816, when there were short crops both in the United States and Europe, flour sold at $15 per barrel, and Indian corn at $3 per bushel, the currency then being specie. Now good flour commands from $15 to $19 per barrel, and Indian corn, we believe, is as high as in 1816."

The application made by Mr. Jefferson Davis for the writ of habens corpus, is published. It is in the usual form, and states the length of the N. Y. Times says that bail to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars for the release of Mr. Davis will be tendered, Augustus Schell flaw, and the visitor is assured that it was tied and Horace Greeley becoming securities.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

'To show the very age and body of the times.' The following is an extract from an order issued by Gen. Sheridan. "To relieve the State of Louisiana from the incubus of the quarrel which now exists between the Governor and the Legislature, as to which political party have the disbursement of the four millions of levee bonds, authorized by the last Legislature, and in order to have the money distributed for the best interests of the overflowed districts, all existing or pretended boards of levee commissioners are hereby abolished."

The Helena, Arkansas, Clarion of the 1 instant, says:- "Just as we go to press we have received the information that Governor Murphy has issued a proclamation, based upon an order from General Ord dissolving the legislative body of the State, and transferring the public treasury into the hands of Colonel Page, of the Quartermaster's Department of the United States army." At Rochester, N. Y., a block of buildings was destroyed by fire, on Saturday, and three persons burned to death. In Philadelphia two colored children were suffocated and a fireman killed whilst attempting to put out the fire. In Chicago four firemen were buried beneath the ruins of a burning building, three of whom were killed and the fourth fatally

Gen. Sheridan having written to Gen. Grant, asking advice concerning the construction to be put upon the Military bill, the latter replied: "Your questions as to who are ineligible for registration are submitted to the Attorney General. No answer has been received. Go on giving your interpretation to the law, until answer is received."

A farmer named Alfred Hoyt, living near Dundas, Mino., on Monday last, killed his neighbor. Josiah Stanford, with an axe, almost severing his head from his body and cutting off both hands. Hoyt then proceeded to the bouse and attempted to murder Mrs. Stanford, but she evaded him until her two sons rescued her and reized the murderer.

and others "Gov. Pierpoint finally very reluctantly arpeared. He could not make a speech this vening; would like to give his views at full length, and a little longer, on some other occasion and give them his advice. But he would say that the 'old white men' of the Commonwealth, in his opinion, who were more intelligent than the colored, stand much more in need of 'talking to,' than did the latter. He hoped, too, that they would receive wholesome instructions, and act upon them in this crisis. The colored men were already in the right track. [Great applause.] We were just about publican party established by Jefferson, and we must make use of a parcel of fellows who cannot participate in our action to further the establishment of these principles. AFFAIRS IN AMERICA.-It is well, sometimes, to look, at the opinions of the public outside of the country, with regard to affairs at home. Here then, is an extract from a late number of the London Morning Post: "Every one who feels an interest in the welfare of the great American Republic-and who does not?-inust regret the embarrassment in which not only the Executive and the Congress, but even the people of the United States, at present find themselves. Whilst the North was still engaged in what appeared to be a fruitless attempt to reduce the South to subjection, the former was warned of the difficulties with which, even if successful, it would have to contend. The event has proved that hese anticipations were substantially correct, though in one sense they were fallacious. The difficulties are, in truth much greater than it was believed they would be, but they proceeded from an unexpected source. It was supposed, as well from the manner in which the war was carried on as from the independent spirit which actuated the South in maintaining so gallant and stubborn a resistance, that it would be impossible to reconcile the inhabitants of the Southern States to a common form of government with their Northern rivals. When the war came to a close, however, the world was of their unsuccessful appeal to arms. Without exception, the several local Legislatures in what were previously the slaveholding States hastened to accept the new order of things, to ratify the proclamation issued by Mr. Lincoln abolishing slavery, and to take every step in their power to facilitate the work of reconstruction in which the Executive professed to be engaged. At that moment but one thing was necessary for the re establishment of the Republic upon a basis which would at least have held out some prospect of stability. This element was the concurrence of the victorious party, and this element was unfortunately wanting.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.—The statement of the public debt has been published. It shows that during the month of April the debt bearing coin interest has increased $41,821,750; the delt bearing currency interest has decreased $37,165,070; matured debt not presented for payment has decreased $893,118, and debt bearing no interest has increased $1,398,162.50, making the increase of total debt during the month $5,171,724.40. WENDELL PHILLIPS .- In his recent speech at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, Wendell Phillips, who is the very incarnation of that fell and bloody spirit which characterizes some of his peculiar d sciples and followers, denounced in unmeasured terms all at the North who dare to talk of conciliation. Not only did he wish the Southern people disfranchised, but he would have them exterminated root and branch, and was applauded, to the very echo, for the devilish sentiment. The arrogant blasphemy with which he and his kindred spirits claim to be the interpreters and instruments of executing the will of God, and the bloody cunning with which they seize upon incidents in bible history to justify as a divine command the gratification of their own bloody lusts, is horribly illustrated in the following quotation from his speech:

"God," said he, "once reconstructed a country, and Divine wisdom turned to this very problem which Providence gives us to solve. In that territory there sprang up an irrepressible conflict. Canaan worshiped idols, and God wanted to introduce the worship of the one God. What did he say ? Did he say as your great apostle—Beecher—said: 'Be a conciliator?' To David, 'Be very meek?'
To another, 'Don't hurt their feelings?' He said: 'Exterminate every living thing-man, woman and child-that ever bowed the knee to Baal.' The natural tendency of men possessed of absolute power is to cruelty and violence, and though noble traits and acts of personal generosity and moral heroism, have more than half redeemed the fame of some of the blackest tyrants that ever caused a land to mourn: yet in the light of this age, for a people who for a century have boasted that theirs was the "land of the free and the home of the brave," deliberately and voluntarily to establish a system of irresponsible tyranny, such as this man Phillips advocates, is the most stupendous act of national folly and abnegation of principle recorded COMMUNICATED. Some of the property holders of Alexandria seem to hove forgotten the golden rule; and for their benefit I will repeat it: Do unto others, as you would have others do unto you. Some of the best young men of our city have formed themselves into a hook and ladder company, for the better preservation of the property of the city, both public and private, from fire; a thing conceded by all to be needed in the city; and especially has it been spoken of by our patriotic firemen, who have on many occasions felt the need of ladders. Many of our citizens owning no property have given liberally from their small means, towards equiping the company. But some of our large property holders have either given a mere pittance, or refused altogether to subscribe for the purpose; and for their benefit I would apply the above rule. As a member of the hook and ladder company I intend, at our next meeting, to propose to the company that a list be kept of those insurance companies and property holders who have subscribed to aid us in our efforts to get the fire truck. And I hope that no member of our company is so fit a subject gratified at finding that the Confederates for an insane asylum as to risk either life or evinced their readiness to abide by the result limb to save the miser-stored wealth of any property holder, who is not willing to aid himself. Hence the above rule.
